

Immediate Press Release Requested by Olympic Peninsula Humane Society!

The Olympic Peninsula Humane Society located in Port Angeles, is very pleased to announce that Suzy Zustiak, DVM, joined the organization recently, according to Board President, Marsha Robin.

“Dr. Zustiak is our shelter’s first full-time veterinarian, and our Board as well as our staff team are enormously pleased and excited about the new direction and energy Suzy brings to us.”

Dr. Zustiak hails from Whidbey Island and has always planned a career working with animals. In high school she decided to pursue veterinary medicine and began working toward that goal following graduation in 2000. Dr. Zustiak added, “I attended Washington State University as an undergraduate and graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in zoology. Then, following a couple years of soul searching and kennel cleaning, I was accepted into the College of Veterinary Medicine at WSU.” Dr. Zustiak has always had a special interest in shelter medicine and had spent many hours volunteering at a shelter prior to veterinary school. “I knew that taking care of the homeless animals was my future” she added.

While living in eastern Washington for the past 10 years she grew to love the Palouse and all its natural beauty. However, she concluded by offering “I am really excited to be able to live amongst the trees, mountains and beaches in western Washington once again and I am thoroughly enjoying the challenges and opportunities that being a part of the team that our shelter offers”.

Robin also stated that the annual meeting for members of Olympic Peninsula Humane Society will be held at 6:15 p.m. in the Carver Room at the NOLS, Port Angeles site. Dr. Zustiak will be present to meet Society Members and community during this gathering. For further information please contact Marsha Robin at 206-650-5431 or a member of staff team at OPHS 457-8206.
